

DRAFT Revision for SIC member review

Vision 2000:

Charting the Future Direction of Star Island

A Mid-Course Adjustment of our Strategic Plan
to take us from 2003 to 2007

The Star Island Corporation

August, 2003

Introduction to the Draft Revision

In 1998, the Board of Directors of The Star Island Corporation decided to update its long-range plan, developed initially in 1992. The process the board envisioned was to be as inclusive as possible of the broad range of Star constituents and stakeholders. As it unfolded, the strategic planning process involved literally hundreds of people: Corporation members, Pelicans and senior staff members, conferees from virtually every Star Island conference, and of course the board itself. The Vision 2000 plan was adopted in March 2000 by the Board and ratified at the annual meeting of the Corporation in April, 2000.

As the board begins a mid-course evaluation of our accomplishments and the work yet to be undertaken, we are planning to again involve Shoalers in an inclusive process that we began at a special pre-meetings before the Annual Meeting on April 5, 2003. At that meeting, the board shared accomplishments, thoughts about this revision, and a summary of yet to be accomplished goals, strategies and action steps. Corporation members reacted favorably to the revision and offered valuable comments about the adjustments to the plan. The intent of the board is to bring a draft revision to the SIC membership and to other interested Shoalers over the course of 2003.

The Process Thus Far

At a January Retreat, members of the Board of Directors and our Manager began a “mid-course” evaluation of Vision 2000, the strategic plan expected to define our goals through 2007. At this meeting, we realized that only four of us currently on the board participated in the crafting of this strategic plan. Everyone else on the Board was new. The process of reviewing the plan and discussing each visionary (goal) statement and their underlying strategies and action steps was a unifying process that helped us open discussions and differences about the “setting the future direction of Star Island.”

We celebrated our many accomplishments and we reassessed the completeness and relevance of our visions and the strategies and action steps for achieving them. We celebrated accomplishments, especially The Place of Pelicans in the Star Community and A Commitment to Hospitality) which we felt have been largely achieved. We agreed also that substantial progress has been made in all six areas which are:

- A. A Refuge for the Simple Life
- B. A Spiritual Emphasis: Honoring Diversity, Accepting All
- C. Financial Growth and Affordability
- D. The Place of Pelicans in the Star Community
- E. A Commitment to Hospitality
- F. Relationships, Communication, and Governance

After expressing appreciation for Paul Jennings and his staff’s role in these achievements and patting ourselves on the back for ours, the Board decided to retain all of the six original Vision statements. We made the decision to break out Facilities as a separate, seventh vision statement and to locate the strategies and actions steps that had been scattered throughout the plan under this new, discrete goal. The new “G. Vision: Facilities” visionary goal reads:

Star Island’s buildings, grounds, and equipment are maintained in sound operational condition. Buildings look as though they have been well maintained for 125 years. A suitable infrastructure meets our needs for transportation, off- and on-season work, and mainland operations. Risks of disruption from on- and off-island vulnerabilities are identified and minimized. Our staff has adequate skills, tools, and financial resources.

Maintenance of both the built and the natural environments follows a cost-effective, Long-term plan that prolongs the lives of our buildings and machinery and protects the natural Shoals environment. We spend enough on maintenance each year to offset the actual rate of depreciation and to improve and extend the physical plant to meet the various needs expressed in our Vision. Volunteer labor is used as an important resource. All of our work reflects high concern for safety, code compliance, and environmental friendliness.

As we set about evaluating how to achieve new, revised, and unmet goals, the “to-do” lists again grew long. We began to think about who can do all of this work we believe to be necessary. We began to discuss how to be realistic about what can be achieved without burning out our volunteers and our paid staff. This found expression in a new vision drafted to overarch the six existing visions and the new vision for Facilities. This is our overarching vision:

Overarching Vision—A Commitment to Long-term Sustainability

Leadership results in commitment to sustaining Star Island for the long-term by identifying and achieving the constellation and depth of resources—people, both paid and volunteer; skill sets; monetary and non-monetary, etc.— such that operations are reasonably predictable and manageable. As a result, we arrive at meaningful, but do-able workloads for staff and volunteers. The wider Shoals community is involved in this process because they understand the forces requiring more abundant resources and a quickened pace of change necessitated by complex internal and external forces—regulators, the Portsmouth political environment, our aging facility. As we work to balance the tension of competing desirable outcomes, we remain realistic about what can be achieved and aware of intended and unintended consequences of actions taken.

The board also affirmed what it continues to believe is the key element of the original plan found in the Preamble to it:

These visionary statements, strategies, and proposed actions have been created by the Star Island Corporation Board of Directors, based on extensive consultation with those we serve—the Corporation’s membership, the many and varied conferees who come to Star each year, and the staff, including Pelicans. As we have developed these aspects of a strategic plan for Star, we have come increasingly to appreciate the need to find a balance between values that are often in conflict with each other and yet, are desirable in themselves. Examples can be found in almost all of the six areas covered in the plan.

We understand these issues as polarities or tensions integral to the kind of place and community Star is, and in the planning process we have understood our role as not so much to resolve these tensions as to sustain them as creatively as possible. Rather than choose between two desirable values, we find that the higher challenge is to find innovative ways to hold both at once. In the spirit of our sixth visionary statement (F) which affirms the importance of communication and 'right relationships' with all who value this important island resource, we invite the entire Star community to continue this work, shaped from our shared commitment to Star.

The help of Corporation members and Shoalers in all of the Conferences is needed to achieve the visions that will enable the Star Island enterprise to flourish in ways that respond to the many competing demands and goals. This draft document reflects the preliminary work of the board's Vision 2000 mid-course adjustment and the input of Corporation members from the special pre-meeting held before the April 2003 Annual Meeting. There was support for the revised Vision 2000 and enthusiasm and consensus about our renewed priority to establish a format through which conferences can collaborate with the corporation and take appropriate responsibility for the Star endeavor. The issue of the long-term sustainability of the Star enterprise is one about which we must continue to educate ourselves.

We again acknowledge with gratitude the efforts provided by David R. Sanderson, our Organizational Development Consultant, in helping the board to evaluate our progress and to begin this revision.

Overarching Vision—A Commitment to Long-term Sustainability

Leadership results in commitment to sustaining Star Island for the long-term by identifying and achieving the constellation and depth of resources—people, both paid and volunteer; skill sets; monetary and non-monetary, etc.— such that operations are reasonably predictable and manageable. As a result, we arrive at meaningful, but do-able workloads for staff and volunteers. The wider Shoals community is involved in this process because they understand the forces requiring more abundant resources and a quickened pace of change necessitated by complex internal and external forces—regulators, the Portsmouth political environment, our aging facility. As we work to balance the tension of competing desirable outcomes, we remain realistic about what can be achieved and aware of intended and unintended consequences of actions taken.

Strategies

1. Undertake Human Resources Study with primary emphasis on Portsmouth office and Corporation level function
2. As part of long term maintenance and facilities needs planning, assess personnel requirements, both seasonal and full time, paid and volunteer, required to maintain and operate the island
3. Engage SIC members and Conferences in issues related to sustainability

Actions

Nearer-term (2003-2005)

Develop an annual master calendar for staff and board functions including detailed timelines for all major tasks and functions (e.g., Annual Fund, Pelican Hiring, Annual Meeting Planning, Budget Development and Approval, Publications)

Develop multi-year calendar including dates such as contract/lease renewals (Shoals Marine Lab., Isles of Shoals Steamship Company., Pease Development Authority) and other recurring tasks (Waste Water Treatment Plant permit)

Clarify board and manager accountabilities to enable streamlining committee structures and the effectiveness of volunteers by August '03

Bring issues raised in the board's work related to the Vision 2000 mid-course adjustment to the attention of Corporation members and other Shoalers

Describe the current level of demand on staff and volunteers

Begin Human Resources Study no later than Fall 2003

Maximize a broad range of volunteer activities in both the operation of the corporation and the island while assessing coordination and support issues associated with using volunteers (by describing current level of demand on staff and volunteers and using the results of the Human Resources study).

Longer-term (2003-2007)

Put Human Resources plan into practice by budgeting for appropriate number and skill levels of permanent and summer staff

A. Vision: A Refuge for the Simple Life

Star Island preserves its 19th century appearance, charm and simplicity. All Shoalers share in the stewardship of the Island’s historic, cultural and environmental resources. Conferees and employees work together to sustain and pass along the history and traditional practices of Star island and its conferences. When contemporary technology is employed, it is always used unobtrusively. We preserve some special places for reflection and mediation and others for fellowship and interaction.

Mid-Course Review

Although Vision A has been achieved in large part, we retain it as a goal since it requires ongoing vigilant attention. The major visible accomplishments in this vision area include:

- The Landscape Task Force report received by the Board of Directors
- Excellent progress on cleaning up the Island
- The staff ‘s increasingly positive sense of sharing Island mission and space with conferees
- The staff’s attention to details evident in the loving care of wood surfaces, placement of flowers, etc.
- The refurbishing of Lobby, Pink Parlor and Writing Room furniture and the re-caning of many rockers and dining room chairs
- The presentation of the Facilities Committee’s report to the Board of Directors which is a start towards a facilities maintenance plan
- Technological improvements that are unobtrusive.

B. Vision: A Spiritual Emphasis -- Honoring Diversity, Accepting All

The Star Island community respects and honors its multiple constituencies by welcoming conferees, staff and visitors of all religious and cultural backgrounds. On Star, people of all income levels, abilities, and persuasions may join together in a community that nurtures respect for the dignity and worth of every individual. Community members come from a wide geographical area to enrich the Star Island experience at every level—as staff, volunteer, conferee, visitor. All are celebrated for the individual gifts each can bring; All are treated with equal consideration and respect. We promote affordability and accessibility and find creative ways to include those who would not otherwise be able to come.

Mid-Course Review

There have been considerable accomplishments in this area. Key among them are:

- The financial accessibility task force was established and created a “best practices” manual of conferences’ financial support.
- Pelican chapels have been re-invigorated and are well attended.
- Pelicans have been engaging in discussions around social justice and individual outreach to people of color.
- There has been increased geographic diversity on the board and committees and accommodations made to allow participation.

C. Vision: Financial Growth and Affordability

While Star Island remains affordable to a wide range of conferees, we generate additional financial resources for support of the conference center through sound financial planning, which includes provision for extraordinary expense, well-managed budgets, and increased voluntary contributions.

Mid-Course Review

Our primary focus during the first few years of Vision 2000 was to strengthen our financial foundation. We've achieved many of these initial goals. Moving forward our focus will be primarily on Long-term financial challenges facing Star Island, including the Long-term financing of capital projects and ongoing infrastructure needs, sustained affordability, and continued growth in financial contributions and related programs, such as the annual fund, planned giving, and the proposed capital campaign.

We reaffirm the necessity of meeting our financial goals, and acknowledge the significant strides we have made in this area. The underlying values and objectives of this vision remain essentially unchanged with only minor adjustments to our strategies and goals. These adjustments acknowledge the key accomplishments we have achieved, and recognize the areas that require additional focus over the next few years. It should be noted that the financial challenges we faced with rebuilding of the pier reaffirm the importance of a healthy financial position. Key accomplishments include:

- The development and growth of cash reserve funds
- Increased annual giving (Annual Fund contributions have been tripled)
- Financed the rebuilding of the pier
- Improved awareness of financial issues and challenges throughout the Star Island community
- Reviewed financial accessibility issues and made recommendations
- Undertook a capital campaign feasibility study
- Completed staff compensation reviews to establish competitive wages, and adjusted salaries
- Instituted room and board deposits to improve off-season cash flow management
- Improved business relationships with Portsmouth businesses and government

- Partnered in developing the Long-term capital equipment and maintenance study
- Improved financial reporting and controls
- Acquired partial funding for a development staff member
- Began targeted fundraising

D. Vision: The Place of Pelicans in the Star Community

The constituencies of the Star community share a common vision about our core mission, intent, and direction. The Pelicans are an integral part of the community, inseparable from the religious and educational mission of the Island. As with all other parts of the community, they are recipients of intentional communication and are trusted and valued as part of a collaborative partnership: as Shoalers and as employees, they both give and receive in this partnership. Thus, the Pelican experience is characterized by opportunities to participate in decision-making, assume responsibilities and leadership, develop initiatives, learn from mistakes, and contribute to achieving the vision for what Star is and can be.

Review

We feel that this Vision has been significantly accomplished in the last three years. This is evident in several ways. 1) In conference evaluations, conferees frequently gave high praise to the Pelican Community, citing renewed commitment to service and improved morale and skill levels. 2) The Pelican community made a generous donation to the 2002 Annual Fund, showing their commitment to Star as a partner and not just an employee. 3) The number of applicants for Pelican positions are substantially higher, both for new and returning Pelicans.

Although most of the Strategies and Action Steps have been accomplished, one area, Pelican living accommodations, continues to make gains but more still needs to be accomplished. Unfortunately, to properly address this issue of adequate housing for all Pelicans, significant capital expense may be required for new housing. Another area requiring further effort is the Personnel Policies and Handbook. A draft version is complete but significant revisions need to be made to some of the Policies and the entire Handbook needs to be approved. Lack of available people to work on this, due in part to higher priorities, is largely the reason it is not completed.

The key to Long-term success for this Vision is in institutionalizing these accomplishments. All of the Strategies need to remain a Board and staff priority with periodic review to ensure what has been accomplished, stays accomplished. As part of our review the following accomplishments were cited:

- Accomplishing this vision is ahead of schedule by working on all the strategies and taking many of the action steps
- Fundamental changes in the Pelican community evidenced by entirely transformed attitudes, energy, performance and enjoyment
- Improved compensation – and a change in philosophy to Pels as valued employees, fully paid by salary rather than as tipped employees
- Excellent processes for recruitment, retention and mentoring
- Investment in the goals of the Corporation – Pelicans reinvested in the SIC with a contribution of $1000 to Star Annual Fund

- Evaluations from conferees and senior staff document good Pel attitudes and it shows in performance.

E. Vision: A Commitment to Hospitality

Guests and staff members know that the Star spirit helps to create a climate of warm hospitality. Star's spiritual values are embodied in the cleanliness and comfort of our facilities and in the quality of food and service, which reinforce our commitment to providing hospitality and friendship to all who come to Star.

The Island is well maintained, neat, attractive, and as accessible as possible to all. Guests appreciate the ambiance and rugged qualities that make this conference center unique. Our skilled staff is sensitive to the needs of others and is well prepared to meet a variety of conferee special needs with a cheerful, helpful attitude whenever possible. The staff anticipates conference requests and demonstrates an attitude of commitment and hard work that our guests recognize and applaud.

Mid-Course Review

To continue providing service at this level requires us to evaluate whether we have the staff to continue to meet our goals and whether we deploy volunteers as well as we can. As we address sustainability, attention must be paid to the issue of human resources and their deployment.

In large part, we've had success with all five strategies which is directly attributable to our staff and many devoted, hardworking volunteers. Key accomplishments are:

- Improved care of the island rooms, including total reupholstering of Lobby, Pink Parlor and Writing Room furniture with donated material and labor
- The lobby and chapel present a better face to the world

F. Vision: Relationships, Communication, and Governance

Star Island has and promotes a set of relationships and a governance process reflective of ongoing collaboration between its multiple communities, so that all Shoalers are empowered—conferees, employees, visitors, and other Star Island supporters. Vision 2000 goals are shared, nurtured and achieved together. We value contributions from all. Everyone is able to intentionally create opportunities for dialogue (including listening, informing and consulting) and volunteerism to encourage mutual problem solving, the emergence of leadership, and a balance between change and continuity. With this inclusive approach, we sustain the spirit of the Shoals.

Mid-course Review

This vision was affirmed as appropriate. Some of the strategies and actions were unclear or vague and overly ambitious given the resources we can bring to bear on accomplishing this vision. We felt that it was necessary to limit and sharpen the focus of our goals. Key accomplishments are:

- Better communication in the form of written material (the newsletter, “Pillow Talk,” letters sent informing corporation members and others of changes in procedures, etc.); improved oral communications
- A board presence at each Conference for the last three summers has begun to educate conferees about the role and structure of the board and about corporation membership as well as serve as a forum to obtain feedback from Shoalers
- The 2000-2001 Governance Task Force extended the governance review previously begun to bring our bylaws up-to-date and to make them consonant with Vision 2000 goals. The recommended changes were adopted by Star Island Corporation membership at the 2002 Annual Meeting
- The work of the Task Force on Appointments established a defined, collaborative procedure (protocols that enhance the openness of the organization) for arriving at board nominations to the Nominating and Membership Committees
- The Board established a Committee on Appointments as recommended by the Task Force on Appointments which should extend this process to all committees and, thus, improve the recommendation and appointment of volunteers to all SIC committees
- Led to the establishment of a cross-conference Financial Accessibility Committee that codified the various financial aid programs of the conferences and the Governance Task Force which represented thinking from many of the conferences

 - Develop new organization chart, including mission/goals and operating procedure for committees
 - Develop handbook/manual on corporation membership for newly elected SIC members
 - Establish term limits for committees to open the process of participation
 - Broaden inclusivity by expanding the geographical location of meetings and events or choices of people for work groups
- Evaluate and revise volunteer recognition programs

- Evaluate the function of the various committees

G. Vision: Facilities

Star Island's buildings, grounds, and equipment are maintained in sound operational condition. Buildings look as though they have been well maintained for 125 years. A suitable infrastructure meets our needs for transportation, off- and on-season work, and mainland operations. Risks of disruption from on- and off-island vulnerabilities are identified and minimized. Our staff has adequate skills, tools, and financial resources.

Maintenance of both the built and the natural environments follows a cost-effective, Long-term plan that prolongs the lives of our buildings and machinery and protects the natural Shoals environment. We spend enough on maintenance each year to offset the actual rate of depreciation and to improve and extend the physical plant to meet the various needs expressed in our vision. Volunteer labor is used as an important resource. All of our work reflects high concern for safety, code compliance, and environmental friendliness.

Mid-course Review and Rationale for a Facilities Vision

The original Vision 2000 strategic plan did not feature a specific section for Facilities, although material related to facilities was spread throughout. At its January 2003 retreat, the Board decided that facilities issues have become so central to the Corporation's future that a separate Facilities section is now warranted in our strategic plan. Key accomplishments, many of which were spread under the previous six visions are:

- A collaborative effort has begun between the Facilities and Finance Committees to plan comprehensively our infrastructure and maintenance needs
- The Facilities Committee has inventoried all buildings and equipment on the island and used the information as the basis for a ten-year maintenance forecast
- The Landscape Task Force has delivered a report with recommendations for maintaining the island's natural environment. The Facilities Committee has appointed a task force to create an Accessibility Master Plan. Their task is to document what has been accomplished to date in making the Island more accessible as well as short and long range goals for more accessibility with the greatest topic being creating accessible Chapel Services

The pier has undergone an extensive, successful rehabilitation at a cost exceeding any capital project in our history. This pier has served as a visible example of the vulnerabilities in our facility, our commitment to address them, and the ongoing needs for preventive maintenance and adequate financial reserves

Strategies

1. Develop a needs-based, long-horizon maintenance plan and schedule that is continually updated.

2. Identify “single points of failure” vulnerabilities and plan for back-up systems or redundancies.
3. Develop, document, and maintain a listing of critical operational information so that institutional knowledge is used and preserved.
4. Develop a ten-year vision of needed new or replacement buildings as input to the Long-term fund-raising activities of SIC.
5. Document accomplishments in making the island more accessible. Establish short- and long-range goals for further enhancements, with great attention to creating accessible Chapel Services.

Action Steps:

Nearer- term (2003-2005)

- Complete needs-based maintenance schedule and integrate it with the annual budgeting process. Identify the staff needed to fulfill this schedule and build their cost into the budget.
- Develop short- and Long-term accessibility plans.
- Continue implementing Landscape Task Force report.
- Develop a ten-year plan to identify new buildings necessary to fulfill this Vision.
- Obtain expert opinions about condition of high-risk areas such as Oceanic west wall, Gosport roof, etc.
- Assess areas of operational vulnerability and systematically plan for contingencies and emergencies.
- Negotiate multi-year contracts for transportation and parking.
- Assess feasibility of acquiring a mainland facility that would provide dockage, storage, parking, and office space.

Immediate(2003)

- Upgrade off-season living quarters and other infrastructure necessary to support year-round maintenance work.
- Begin implementing short-term accessibility plan.
- Further the development of the proposal of the Landscape Task Force for a plan for the landscape in the back side of the island, taking appropriate steps to reduce fire risk and be respectful of our natural environment and wildlife habitat.

- Inventory current information about buildings, systems, and equipment, and update manuals for each crew. Make this information available on- and off-island. Develop procedures for continually updating it.

Long-term (2003-2007)

- Acquire the financial resources and hire or train the skilled staff to implement fully the needs based maintenance schedule.
- Acquire back-up systems and build redundancies to control risks from single points of failure.
- Fully implement long-term accessibility plan.

Conclusions

The Vision 2000 Strategic plan is a living document, a statement of where we see ourselves in 2007. Three years into our plan, the board has begun a re-evaluation of it and an adjustment of goals, strategies and actions to be taken.

Star Island Corporation members have given initial input to this mid-course adjustment. Next steps involve Shoalers across Conferences as well as Corporation members in additional comments and input. The “adjusted plan” will be presented at the 2004 Annual Meeting of the Corporation for affirmation.

Our visions are lofty and our achievements to date are awesome. Yet much remains to be accomplished. We look forward to your help in assessing where we are and in achieving Star’s goals.
